Dear Sir:

Recently I read in the newspaper of the discovery of a new comet, number thirteen for the year. I have never seen a comet and so am very interested in this discovery. Usually what happens is that by the time it is printed in Sky & Telescope it has faded and is not readily seen. I would like for you if possible to send me any information you have on this such as its co-ordinates, mag., etc. Any information such as how to observe, method, what to look for, equipment, etc. would be a welcome addition to our information here at this centre. Thank-you.

yours truly,
